A Message from the Mayor of Cranktown

Nestled among the majestic Bunnykins Mountains, the Kingdom of Rodney is the ideal destination for the caution-free holidaymaker.

Take advantage of the generous "Dragon Discounts" offered by Cranktown's Inns and join the friendly (but fearful) locals in a wide range of regular weekly activities including Putting out the Burning Picturesque Buildings, Fleeing in Terror Down the Quaint Cobbled Streets, and Cowering Below Ground in the Atmospheric Catacombs.

And, if you're feeling especially adventurous, you might like to take a day trip* up to Krummy Cavern to try your luck at ridding the Kingdom of Flamethrottle, the ferocious man-eating dragon.

Whatever your tastes, we guarantee that a holiday in Rodney will be a once in a lifetime experience that you and your surviving loved ones will never forget!

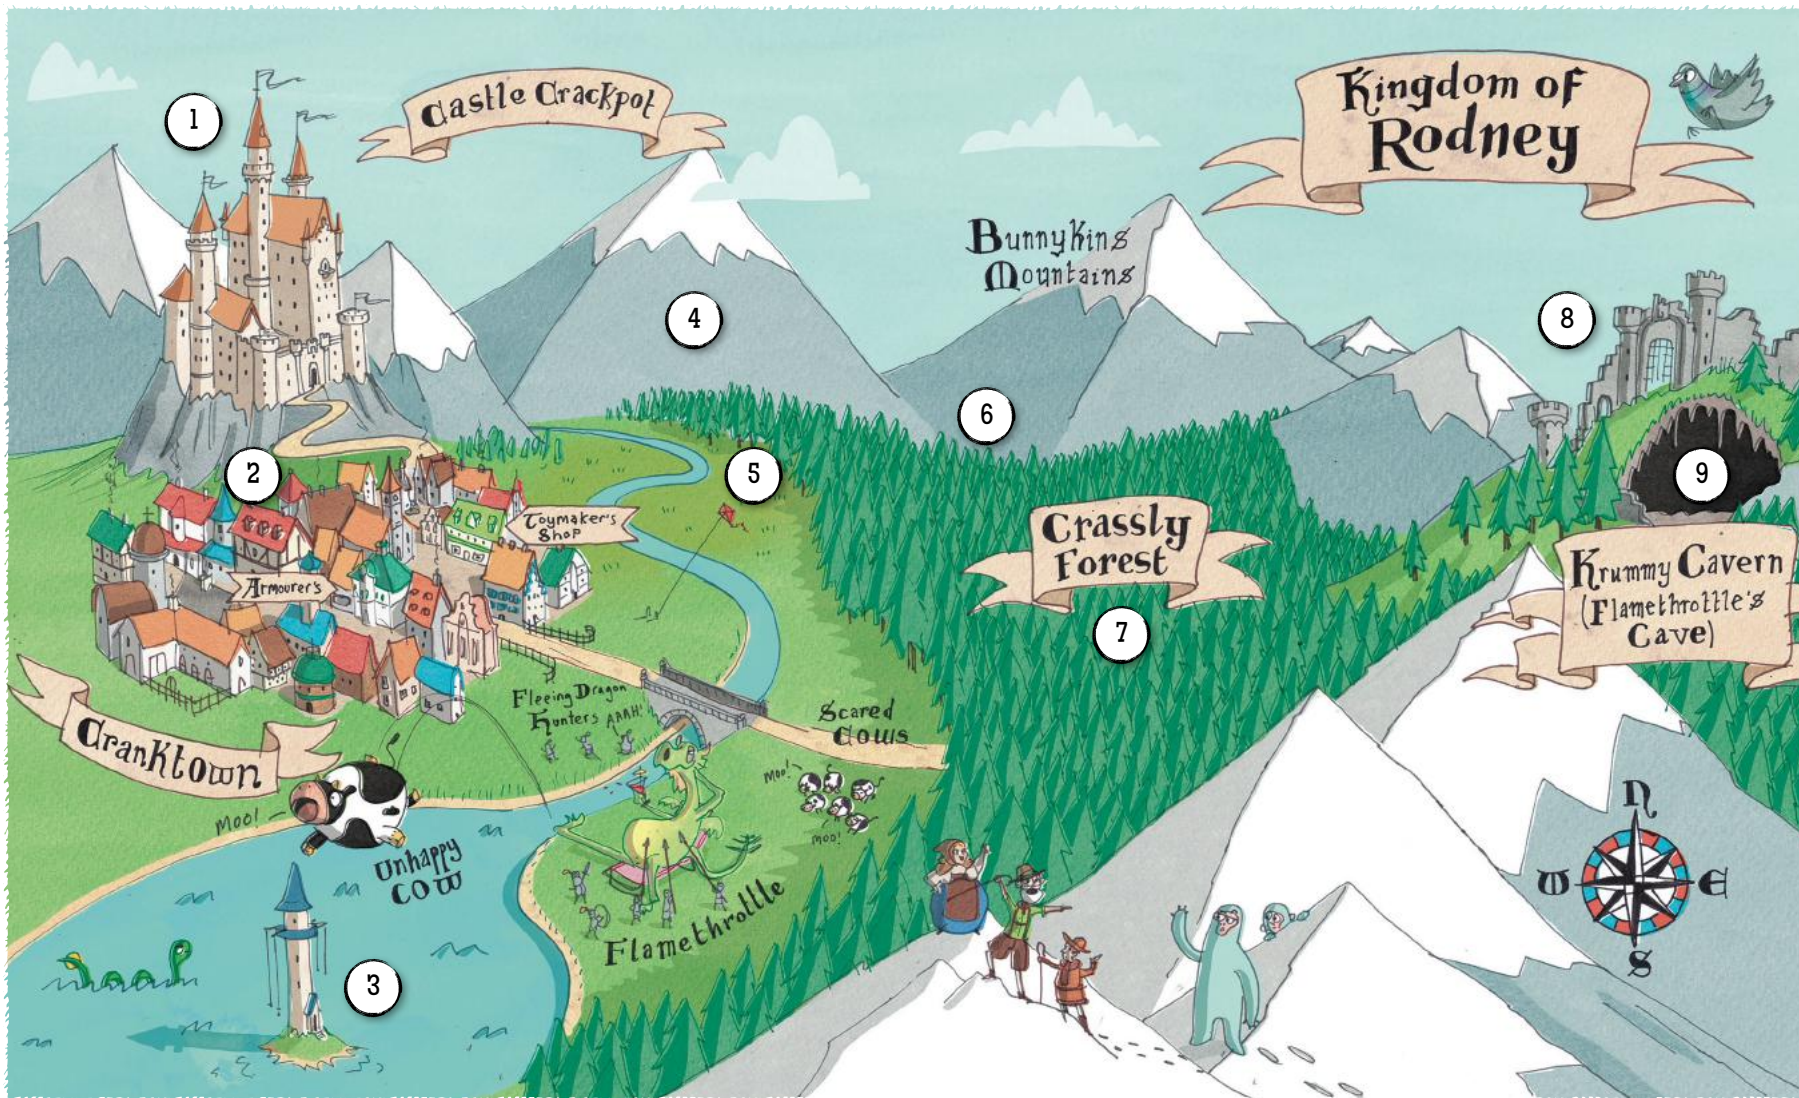

Dame Nelly Fudgebar
Cranktown Mayor

* The route is clearly marked by a trail of bones and armour.

Rodney Tourist Board Official Disclaimer: Please note that the Kingdom of Rodney is currently subject to a dragon infestation and as such the Rodney Tourist Board accept no responsibility for the loss of life, limb, sanity, family members, pets or treasure during your stay.

THE KINGDOM OF RODNEY A VISITOR'S GUIDE

5: Kruddly Marshes

Drab, dank and full of festering slime, the Kruddly Marshes are a favourite summer destination for flies and their families.

6: Vale of Squinty

Don't bother going there - it's much further than it looks and hardly worth the effort.

7: Crassly Forest

Three times winner of Golden Pine Cone Award for Best Kept Forest in Rodney, Crassly (Rodney's only forest) would be an ideal picnic location ... if it wasn't downwind from the Kruddly Marshes and teeming with ravenous wolves.

8: Castle Krummy (Ruin)

Knocked up at the weekends by King Terry II using some stone blocks that had "fallen off the back of a wagon". Terry's wife, Queen Stacy, eventually persuaded him to abandon the project and get some 'proper' builders to construct Castle Crackpot instead.

9: Krummy Cavern (Flamethrottle's Cave)

The world's only cheese mine, this vast cavern was excavated for more than a century until the people of Rodney realised that cheese had to be made rather than mined. The cave is now home to Flamethrottle the man-eating Dragon and houses an extensive collection of stolen treasure, mangled armour and bones.

Kingdom of Rodney

Originally known as 'Fwqxtkrghlstan', but renamed 'Rodney' in 1537 since even the people that lived there were unable to pronounce the kingdom's name correctly.

1: Castle Crackpot

Designed by Queen Stacy in 1642, Castle Crackpot enjoys uninterrupted views of the Kingdom of Rodney and is just a cannon ball's throw from the local shops.

2: Cranktown

Although no longer the cheerful bustling community it once was, the town has become a popular lunch venue for Flamethrottle, Rodney's resident man-eating dragon.

3: The Tower of Bauble

Having spent the rest of the year surrounded by the pine trees of Crassly Forest, the people of Cranktown celebrate Christmas by hanging shiny decorations from this tower instead.

4: Bunnykins Mountains

Named after the beloved pet rabbits of King Darren I, the range stretches from Mount Fluffles in the west to Mount Binky in the east, the highest peak being Mount Frisky.
